SCHOOL REPORT.

One of the revolutions that never turns backward is the revolution of time, which reminds us that the time again has come for us to render an account of our stewardship in the management of the schools. In presenting this annual report, we desire to reiterate the favorable opinion which we have heretofore expressed regarding the condition of our schools. They have not all been what we could wish, but we think they will compare favorably with those of other years. Some of them have attained a position in which they will bear favorable comparison with the best we ever visited, while in a few there is ample room for improvement. A majority of our teachers have endeavored to discharge the responsible duties they assumed with fidelity to their employers; some, we are sorry to believe, looked forward to "pay day" as the bright spot in their (teachers') life. We do think that experience has or will whisper to such, The school-room is no place for you as a teacher. The composition of a successful teacher is peculiar and seldom found. They should possess the requisite amount of "book knowledge," to be sure, but this is a small part of their requirement. They want to have that peculiar tact and faculty in explanation, that their pupils may catch their meaning by intuition. They want to possess a fund of general information of their own, from which they may draw, and not always be dependent upon other people's store-houses. In a word, teaching is a speciality as much as any other calling. A person may be well educated and possess ample talent for almost everything else, and yet be a poor teacher.

By request of State Superintendent Gowing it was deemed advisable to hold during the spring term a teachers' institute for one day and evening. The cost to the district was only a few dollars for use of a hall, all other expenses being met by the superintendent and by those who attended the session. We are of the opinion that the session resulted in much good, and that all of the teachers who attended were largely benefited by coming in contact with the opinions and experience of some of the best educators in New England. The session was largely attended by teachers and citizens, about two hundred being present at the afternoon session. The evening session was taken up in listening to a lecture by Rev. F. L. Phalen, of Concord, on Abraham Lincoln.

Singing has been more generally practiced in the schools the past year. Six of the school-rooms are now furnished with organs. The board fully approves of this as a school exercise: we wish it were even more generally introduced. Besides having a tendency to interest the scholars and add a pleasing variety to their studies, it may also be made of permanent value to them in the way of improving their voices and familiarizing them with certain sentiments that are salutary. Scholars, interest yourselves in this exercise.

At the last annual meeting $200 was voted to be raised for the purpose of repairing school-houses and buildings connected therewith. This sum has been used for that purpose and other matters directly connected with school buildings and their grounds. We have found that the matter of securing water for the use of the schools has been a source of annoyance and trouble both to the schools and people living near them. We have deemed it best when it could be done to have wells on the school grounds; two have been dug the past year.

The school buildings are in a fair condition, with the exception of a few that should be repainted inside and out, and besides this a few minor repairs. Should this be thought best to be done, a small appropriation will be required for this purpose.

At the annual meeting last year the warrant contained an article to see if the district would vote to build an additional school-house in the southeast part of the district, near the residence of Robert B. Neal. The matter came up and was postponed, and a similar article is again in the warrant this year, and the district will again be called to act upon this matter at the coming meeting. During the past few years people have come out from Manchester and purchased land and built residences in this section of the district, and the scholars have increased in numbers so that there are now enough children of school age to warrant something being done so that they may have better school accommodations. The distance to other schools seems to be greater than would hardly justify the board in making any arrangements for conveying these scholars. The demand was so urgent upon the board at the beginning of the summer term to either make provision to convey these scholars to the other schools or establish a school where they could be accommodated, that we took the matter in hand and finally came to the conclusion that it would be better to set up a school in an unoccupied room, which we were fortunate enough to hire for that purpose. A teacher was procured, and nineteen weeks of schooling was had with twenty scholars. The building in which the school was held was not very centrally located, necessitating quite a long distance for some of the scholars to travel, so we deemed it best not to hold a winter term there. We leave this matter for your careful consideration, and for you to act upon as you think best.

Each year completes the term of service for which a member of the board is elected to serve; the member whose term of service ends this year has held the position six years, and desires to say that he is not and will not be a candidate for re-election. To the district he returns his thanks for their support so generously given him, also to teachers and friends for their uniform kindness and courtesy shown him in the discharge of his official duties, and most cordially commends the important and responsible trust to other and abler hands, and sincerely hopes that all will coöperate in bringing to our schools still more interest, and labor unitedly to advance everything that will tend to their welfare and prosperity. Let us be generous and noble in relation to this matter, willing at all times to make some sacrifices for the good of those who are destined to fill our places.

We think the library has been well patronized during the past year. There has been an increasing interest among the young people. Our boys, especially, are interested in history.

We hope the town will appropriate a larger amount than last year, and thus keep our young people well supplied with good reading. In this way we may take a long step toward keeping them from the evils with which they are surrounded.
